Sulzer has come back with all the agility of a boomerang and the impeachment at the instigation of Tammany proved the instrument of restoring him to popular favor. As a strong southern extinct volcano, stratified and angled and comfort - if you'll paper remarks, "What has New York to fear under the circum- with ribbon quarts." stances?" She invites the worst by placing a premium on corruption and venality.

The ease may be summed up as follows, by recounting the chief allegations of Sulzer:

That before his inauguration, Charles F. Murphy offered him money enough to pay his debts.

That many times thereafter Murphy sought to coerce him in the stock. matter of appointments.

That, being stubbornly resisted, the Tammany leader threatened from the most careful and conservato make the administration a laughing-stock, and the impeachment live sampling gives an average value was the outcome.

"I was impeached," declared Mr. Sulzer, "because I set in ton, exclusive of the high-grade motion the machinery which led to the indictments by several grand streaks, which run up into the thoujuries, and which have uncarthed state-wide frauds running into millions of dollars, in twenty-two counties, in connection with the mined by Chicago and Oakland as highways and canals of the state.

of the court of impeachment. Sulzer has received a vote of confidence and it remains for him to purge himself by his future conduct. In the meantime, Tammany will take its medicine and gird up its loins for the general election.

John Purroy Mitchell, the newly elected governor of New York, has been a thorn in the side of Tammany ever since he entered the political arena. He is a very young man, of strong character and of very pronounced progressive views. He gained much popularity by his stand on the new subways being built by the city, taking a decided stand against Mayor Gaynor's position - that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit and the Manhattan Elevated companies should control the operations, which would practically eliminate the city from participating in the revenues. With a pronounced plurality of 121,209, Mr. Mitchell will have an opportunity of instituting the many reforms that he had advocated prior to his appointment to the collectorship of the port of New York. With the advanced views that Mr. Mitchell has held regarding the purity of politics, one can searcely reconcile his cheek-by-jowl position with the impeached Sulzer.
